UniBall Advertising

We are now advertising UniBall on <http://mpogd.com>. The ad shows a small video clip of a goal being scored and then flashes a few enticing sentences to lure new players. You can view the ad on the site, but please DO NOT click on the ad as it will record stats for that click. We do not want to have our stats show the wrong clicks otherwise we won't know if the ad is actually getting new players. Many thanks to surreal and the advertising committee who are working hard to promote UniBall.

Congrats to a New Admin

We would like to congratulate TheDevil on his new promotion! For those of you who haven't noticed yet, he has been made an admin! Nice job TD!

UniBall Olympics

It's been a long time coming, but Drakling has announced the launch of UBO Season 2 coming this summer! The UBO is a draft-based league that allows General Managers (GM) to draft a team and then proceed in setting salaries, stealing and trading players. The league will run mostly on hockey but will also feature other maps in 4v4 and 5v5 games. The official launch date will be announced within the next few weeks. For more information about the UBO, visit <http://www.uniballhq.com/forums/viewtopic.php?f=39&t=12432>. We look forward to another successful season!

New UniBall Link

UniBall's <http://www.uniball-central.net> has been changed to <http://www.uniballhq.com> - The new, shorter more elite version will be used to help promote new players to come check out our game!

UniBall in Your Language

People are working hard on making UniBall appeal to a larger base of players. Within this process is advertising, making the site more user friendly but now also having it appear in more languages! The landing page at <http://uniballhq.com> is already appearing in multiple languages, thanks to translations done by other UB'ers but it doesn't stop there! The "New Players" section is also in the process of being translated in multiple languages. This will surely open UB to many, many more players and expanding this awesome game that we all enjoy. Again, thanks to the staff for making this happen!

 You Got Quote'd!

The quote section is back with a double header. This first quote shows just how important not falling asleep during geography is.
