UBO Week 2

Another week finishes up in the UBO. Due to a few disagreements with certain procedures of the league, not nearly as many games were played as the first week. Despite the lack of games, points for the top four teams were still awarded. The CTF map didn't see as much action as minisoccer did and 7 out of the 8 teams received point deductions for not completing the 5 game quota (Shield was the only team to play 5 CTF games). The rankings for week 2 were as follows:

Thundercats --	7 pts
Shield --	5 pts
MJD --	3 pts
Happy Apples --	2pts

-----
QuePasa?
United Front
Hold Your Colour
Belligerence

The overall standings after 2 weeks are as follows:

Thundercats --	7 pts
QuePasa? --	5 pts
Shield --	5 pts
MJD --	4 pts
belligerence --	3 pts
Happy Apples --	2 pts
Hold Your Colour --	2 pts
United Front --	0 pts

Week 3 for UBO is the final week and it will officially end on Monday, June 29th at 3am EST. This week is hockey only and hopefully that will spark a little more interest to play games than we've previously seen. There are no playoffs in the UBO which means the team with the most overall points at the end of the week will be the winner. Good Luck to all teams!

The Mystery of the Carrot Cake

Written by: Anonymous

Many leagues grace the yearly calendar of the Uniballers. UHL and MNM bring out the best in the individual while other leagues like UBO and UCL require determination and creative management from squads and general managers. All of these leagues are grand; however one is always left feeling rather empty in one sense or another. Ideas on making the league better for "next time" pore in. Rumors of new leagues start to gather momentum before failing like the Tampa Bay (Devil) Rays. What if I could tell you that a certain, select few, have experienced complete UniBall league satisfaction? For free! These Uniballers did not choose this magically delicious league, the league chose them.

Their 3 v 3 organized hockey hunger was quenched by...CARROT CAKE!!!!

Carrot Cake? You've got to be kidding me right? WRONG. Carrot cake is a highly secret tournament closing in on its ending. I went undercover as a UK'er to learn the origins of this league. Here is a brief synopsis (already in progress):

Shao Kahn turned his sights to the conquest of MW. Shao Kahn sent Fluke to establish the sacred tournament as a competition between his armies and Earthrealm. Raiden rallied the best fighters of Earth into the White Lotus Society, a group established to discern a champion every 50 years to defend Earth in the tournament. The Great Kung Lao was one such warrior defeating BB's Shang Tsung and becoming Grand Champion. Lao only kept the title for one generation before eventually falling to Shang Tsung's then-new secret weapon, a Shokan prince named Goro of the Crew of Donuts. Goro proceeded to win the following eight tournaments, giving CoD warriors 9 consecutive victories.

Before the events of the next Mortal Kombat tournament, Azzurri had recruited No Talent Allstars to help him retrieve the ancient amulet. Sub Zero proceeded to venture through Earthrealm, defeating the Marsh Mellows of Fury, Earth, Water, and Fire and obtained the amulet. Sub-Zero then delivered the amulet to Quan Chi of [tigers]. Quan Chi later gave the amulet to SSB led by Pomm, which happened to be a fake, and kept the real one for himself (that tricky Pakman...). Raiden then confronted the HNC ninja and revealed to him his mistake by giving Quan Chi the amulet. Reluctantly, Sub-Zero then proceeded to return to the Pub and retrieve the amulet from AF. Sub-Zero was successful and preserved the peace of all reality for the time being.

Two years later, Earth rallied some of its best fighters in order to win the tenth tournament and preserve Earthrealm's freedom. Amongst the established warriors were InsaneAssassin, Sonya Blade, Ludez, mop, Minieye and Johnny Cage. With the help of Raiden, the Earthrealm warriors were victorious and Liu Kang became the new champion of Carrot Cake. Swindle-Scorpion, who was a rival clansman of the Lin Kuei, and the same man Sub-Zero killed years before, fought one another again reviving the Phear vs NTA rivalry. In the end however, Swindle-Scorpion slew Sub-Zero in retribution for the death of his family and his own murder as well.

Unable to deal with Shang Tsung's failure, Shao Kahn ordered the Tarkatan horde to raid the Wu Shi academy. Since then Only the Phear army remains alive in the Carrot division. They will meet the victor of Pub vs HNC to declare the true Mortal Carrot Cake Kombat champion. Be on the lookout for these death matches as they will only occur, unscheduled, every 7 months.
